Mr. POON Yan Wing Lawrence

Chief Manager (Nursing) / Chief Nurse Executive Hospital Authority

It is my pleasure to present my sincere and wholehearted congratulation to the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing on the conferment and celebration of International Nurses Day 2018. I would like to take the opportunity to express my gratitude to all nurses for their devotion and commitment to deliver quality health care services.

“Nurses: A Voice to Lead – Health is a Human Right” is the theme of International Nurses Day this year. Nurses play an important role in our society to protect people from various diseases and keep people healthy. The duties of our nurses are complicated and always challenging, yet we would never give up for one simple reason, as we believe it is a fundamental human right for people to stay healthy.

We all know our voices are making decisive contribution to the society. No matter we are working in public or private hospital, a nursing home or a clinic, our role would be evolved together with the ever-changing health care system so as to ensure the continuity of care for the people. Let us work together for the betterment of our world. In this regard, I deeply appreciate the unfailing effort made by the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing in nurturing our nurses and supporting them to professional excellence.

May I offer my best wishes to all nurses for every success in the coming future.

PATRON'S ADDRESS

Dr. LEONG Che Hung, GBM, GBS, OBE, JP
Patron, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing

I write to congratulate the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing in organizing another meaningful conferment to dovetail with the International Nurses Day.

The theme "Nurses, A voice to lead – Health is a Human Right" is most appropriate. The nursing profession takes on the most frontline work in the health care team directly serving the sick and the desolate. You are also in the frontline and armed with the knowledge to promote health, healthy living and healthy lifestyles to the general population. After all, Health is something that we all aspire to and take ownership.

I wish the Academy every success.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Prof. WONG Kam Yuet Frances

President, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing

This is a day of celebration of achievements, and yet another new day in building the past in the advancement of nursing in the future in Hong Kong. The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing is embarking on the 7th year of her journey striving for one single mission, that is, to attain regulatory status of advanced practising nurses for the protection of the public and advancement of the profession. Sir Winston Churchill once said, 'The longer you look back, the farther you can look forward'. The contributions of the six very prominent individuals who are conferred as Honorary Fellows this year speak to this. Each of them represents an important part of the larger picture of nursing in search of excellence, striving to provide higher quality of care for the people we serve. They have helped build our past to provide a solid ground for us to create our future.

The Academy has done a substantial amount of work in the last few years in constructing specialty curriculum for all specialties led by 14 Academy Colleges endorsed by the Education Committee of the Academy. We have conducted vigorous assessment exercises, and today you are witnessing the third year when we yield fruits from the certification mechanism with a total of 26 earned Fellows from 8 Academy Colleges. We already have a system in place and I can foresee that the system will become more mature in the coming years, with a plan that we would benchmark the standards of advanced nursing practice in Hong Kong with other regions and international counterparts including Mainland China, Canada and Australia that the Academy has already made connections with.

Now we have a system in place, why is it so urgent to gain statutory status for advanced practising nurses? It is urgent because we need to have protection for the public and nurses practising at advanced level. Hong Kong has a mature system in confirming the standards of entry registered nurses by admitting them into the profession and preventing them from practice if they are found unfit for practice. Healthcare and technology are developing quickly these days. For the benefits of the patients, all healthcare professionals are embarking on more advanced practice that require further training and reassurance of the competence when performed upon patients. If we do not have a regulatory system for advanced nursing practice, we are either deterring our nurses from doing more to address the needs of the patients or putting our patients at risk by not doing the due diligence to protect the public if the nurses provide care in their extended and expanded role without standardised training and certification of the competence. We have a critical mass of nurses who aspire to do more and better. We have universities that provide clinical master programs working with the Academy to align the curricula to provide post-graduate education for nurses. What we need is gaining statutory status of the Academy to have a complete closure of service, education and regulation for a healthy professional milieu in Hong Kong.

I extend my heartfelt congratulations to all 26 Fellows today who well deserve the honor they have earned. I express appreciation to the Honorary Fellows who have helped build our past to provide a solid ground for us to create the future. This is a happy day to celebrate and especially for the College Presidents, mentors and the supervisors, a day that you should be proud of. The success of Fellows reflects your relentless efforts of coaching and encouragement in nurturing the younger generation.

Enjoy a happy Nurses' Day and share the joy of the event. Wishing you all health and happiness!

*Director, Global Strategic Initiatives CGFNS International
Advisor, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing*

It is with great pleasure and honour as Advisor to the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) that I send you special greeting on this special day. It is this time of the year where we as nurses should congratulate ourselves and celebrate our successes. HKAN has achieved a great deal over the past year and is growing in strength because of the community that supports nurses and the nursing community who are its members.

I give you my vision for you as nurses. My vision is for Nurses to have courage:

1. to take responsibility, to not blame others but own your own actions, stand up and be counted;
2. to live with integrity, align with values of who you really are as a nurse, choose the right way rather than what is more convenient;
3. to challenge - question and open you mind to wider world views, allow for yourself to reach your full potential;
4. to strive for higher standard. Do not let fear get in your way;
5. to be genuine, be yourself, authentic, avoid conformity;
6. to speak up for yourself and your patients and consumers. Do not shy away from awkward conversations, leave interactions with dignity and trust;
7. to step boldly into action;
8. to have perseverance, build resilience and endurance to get to where you need to be and to do right by your patients and their families;
9. to be able to say no, do not settle for second best. Let evidence, consumer choice and research be your baseline;
10. to open your heart fully to others and your work. This will allow you to understand vulnerability and compassionate care at its fullest;
11. to be able to let go and move on, dump baggage and negative attitude;
12. to be a leader, to offer choice to others, to build wider intelligence and understanding of rights of patients and their families.

I congratulate HKAN for this occasion and wish you well and to have courage to keep on making a difference.

*President, Hong Kong Academy of Medicine
Advisor, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing*

On behalf of the Hong Kong Academy of Medicine, I am pleased to extend my warmest congratulations to the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) on its Fellowship Conferment Ceremony. I would also like to congratulate the new Fellows on reaching this significant milestone.

The nursing profession is one of the key pillars in the healthcare system. Nurses nowadays play an integral part in the multidisciplinary team, not just taking care of patients but also advocating better healthcare for the community. The theme of this year's International Nurses Day, "Nurses: A Voice to Lead – Health is a Human Right", demonstrates the leading role of nurses to transform health systems so as to ensure everyone has the right to have access to quality healthcare.

I would like to applaud the efforts made by the HKAN in upholding the highest standard of nurse specialist training and fostering a spirit of collaboration within the community of nursing. My sincere gratitude goes to our nurses for their continuous commitment and contribution to improve the health of all!

May I wish the HKAN and all new Fellows every success in their future endeavours.

Dr. LEE Kai Yiu Anthony

*Chairman, Hong Kong Private Hospitals Association
Chief Hospital Manager & Medical Director, Union Hospital
Advisor, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing*

As the Chairman of the Hong Kong Private Hospitals Association, let me offer my heartiest congratulations to the International Nursing Day and the Fellows being conferred at today's Ceremony.

Nurses remain the most respectable resource in the healthcare system. On this very special occasion, I would like to applaud the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) for its commitment to nursing excellence, and its continuous effort in encouraging and supporting the professional development of nurses at all levels.

The theme for this year's celebration of International Nurses Day "Nurses A Voice to Lead – Health is a Human right" is a true reflection on the core values of the nursing profession. Nurses can exert a powerful influence both on their own practice and the quality of care delivery. As the healthcare market in Hong Kong has become more saturated with subspecialists, it is even more important to provide our nurses with the opportunity to grow and thrive, and most of all, the learning opportunities to meet these diversity needs.

My sincere gratitude to the HKAN for her dedication in driving professional and specialisation development of our future nurses.

I deeply regret not being be with you in person to commemorate the seventh annual fellowship conferral of the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) and celebration of International Nurses Day 2018. My regret is deepened by so many happy memories of last year's ceremony. As a past president of the American Academy of Nursing (AAN), I have been very impressed with the visibility of HKAN in my country as so many of the organization's leaders have also been inducted into the AAN. I applaud how the HKAN is working with specialty colleges, universities and the full spectrum of health care settings to provide high-level educational opportunities, scientific explorations and clinical experiences that can serve as model development globally. Certainly the induction of this year's honorary fellows — Mr. Arron KWAN, Dr. KO Wing Man, Ms. Patricia CHING, Prof. Ida MARTINSON, Ms. Liv WEBER-ASLAKSEN, and Ms. Cecilia SO — speaks volumes about the wisdom and vibrancy that is the HKAN.

The Australian Nursing and Midwifery Accreditation Council

Advisor, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing

It is with great pleasure that I extend my warmest congratulations to the nursing colleagues who are conferred Fellowship of the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) today. International Nurses Day 2018 is celebrating the theme, Nurses: A Voice to Lead-Health is a Human Right. May 12 is a celebration of Florence Nightingale's birthday and a day to mark the contributions that nurses make all over the world. In celebration of this auspicious day I wish to express my gratitude and respect to the nurses of Hong Kong and all over the world for their commitment and dedication to the care of the public in the community.

I understand that HKAN was incorporated in 2011 and now has admitted about 3,000 Fellows starting with 14 Academy Colleges in various specialties. You will be a Fellow of an organisation that promotes excellence in nursing particularly through the advancement of specialist nursing practice and education. It is highly important and commendable that nurses in Hong Kong actively pursue continuous education and professional development to uphold nursing quality and healthcare standards.

As the Chief Executive Officer of the Australian Nursing and Midwifery Accreditation Council (ANMAC), I understand the importance of setting the standards for nursing and midwifery education and measuring the quality of those programs through accreditation. Nurses and midwives make a significant contribution to the health and care of communities throughout the world.

Congratulations to you all once again and hope that you will become an active participant of the HKAN into the future.

*Chairman, Nursing Council of Hong Kong
Advisor, The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing*

I am most delighted to offer my warmest congratulations to the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) on such an auspicious occasion to celebrate the Fellowship Conferment and International Nurses Day 2018.

“The enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health is one of the fundamental rights of every human being without distinction of race, religion, political belief, economic or social condition” has long been adopted in the Constitution of the World Health Organization. Nurses have a responsibility to advocate for the right to health for all people and address health disparities through a human rights approach. Nurses must therefore work together to ensure that everyone can enjoy the benefits of good health, irrespective of age, gender, race, health status and so on.

In its strategic plan for 2015-16, the HKAN has clearly identified goals to shape health policies for the wellbeing of the public and to promote and protect the health of the community, with respective action plans and timelines. I would like to congratulate the HKAN for its vision and commitment to take a leadership role in addressing health disparities by promoting the embodiment of human rights in the practice of health care.

On behalf of the Nursing Council of Hong Kong, I would like to wish the Academy continued success in all its future endeavours.

Achievements and Events 2017/2018

In the immediate past year, the Hong Kong Academy of Nursing (HKAN) continues to broaden and deepen its work and builds impacts in the community.

The Charity Chinese Opera “The Legend of Purple Hairpin (紫釵記)” organized by HKAN was held on 10 December 2017. Ms. Cynthia HUIE-ROSE, Fellow of HKAN (Cardiac) played the role of protagonist in this opera and her family, the ROSE Family, has rendered full support financially and operationally to the event. The contribution and generosity of the ROSE family is highly appreciated. A sum of over $500,000 was raised.

The annual Strategic Planning Workshop was held on 20 January 2018 in Sai Kung. This year the theme was “Sustainable Development for Hong Kong Academy of Nursing”. It was well attended by 57 representatives from 14 Academy Colleges. Dr. CHUI Tak Yi, Acting Secretary for Food and Health graced the event and provided encouraging remarks. The participants had good discussions, sincere sharing and constructive recommendations. At the end, the President, Prof. Frances WONG drew up 4 strategic foci namely 1) Positioning, 2) Partnership, 3) Passing on and 4) Power for follow up action.

Development of Specialization of Nursing Practice in Hong Kong

The Task Force on Specialization of Nursing Practice set up by the Food and Health Bureau held regular meetings with the Academy, Hospital Authority (HA) and Department of Health (DH) to discuss on the future development of specialization of nursing practice in Hong Kong. The Bureau in the 3rd meeting instructed the Nursing Council of Hong Kong (NCHK) to set up a work group to deliberate on the following: 1) to prescribe guidelines on the scope of practice or/and core competencies of nurses with advanced expertise and standards, 2) to devise a mechanism by setting training standards and recognizing training institutes and 3) to explore the feasibility of setting up a mechanism for advanced practice register under NCHK.

Besides, HKAN had regular meetings with HA and initiated the review and alignment of learning objectives, logbook with clinical objectives set by HA and HKAN. HKAN also initiated the pilot of experiential learning in the 4 specialties of Critical Care, Medical, Paediatrics and Obstetrics.

Active Participation in Promoting Primary Health Care in the Community

In response to the Chief Executive’s Policy Address 2017-2018 on the issue of enhancing Primary Healthcare in the community, Prof. Frances WONG was invited to present the view of HKAN at the respective Consultative Meeting on 8 August 2017.

Mr. KWAN began his nursing training in Queen Mary Hospital (QMH) in 1974. After graduation, he worked as a registered nurse in QMH in various units. His initial intention to work as a nurse was to explore human emotions which he could apply to his early childhood interest in arts. However, his love of nursing grew at the first day he encountered patient care.

In order to improve his nursing knowledge, he visited the medical library, subscribed periodicals and nursing journals, and insatiably acquired the experiences from the senior nurses.

While he worked in the University Surgical Unit, he was nominated to study specialty training in stoma care, wound care, and incontinence care in United Kingdom.

In 1980, he became the first Enterostomal Nurse. He also took an extra duty to look after patients with Total Parenteral Nutrition (TPN).

With his expertise and dedication in improving the quality care for the patients, he was assigned to set up the first Enterostomal Therapy Service in QMH in 1982, two Outpatient clinics in Sai Ying Poon and Tang Chi Ngong, to provide hospital-wide independent nurse consultation. This service covered majority departments in QMH as well as referrals from all other hospitals in Hong Kong. Mr. KWAN set up the foundation of Enterostomal specialty nursing 35 years ago.

Mr. KWAN emigrated with his family to Canada in 1990. He made a major change in his role and career after finishing the Bachelor of Science in Nursing and simultaneously taking Fine Art courses in University of British Columbia in 1993. Since then, he became a full time artist and an art educator for more than 25 years. In return, his teaching people with special needs in art and design is an extension of nursing career.

Abstract

Keynote Address: "Are we prepared?"

The Hong Kong healthcare system is constantly evolving. Driving forces include changes in population demographics, disease burden, technology advancement, development of public private partnership platform, medical social collaboration, district community care platform, health insurance structure, individual and community affordability, new possibilities in delivering health care, expectations from the community, societal values and many others. "The Hong Kong Academy of Nursing is committed to strive for excellence in achieving safe and quality healthcare.....". Since nursing is a key component in modern health care partnering with others to serve patients and community, the direction and pace of development of nursing have to be in sync with those of the healthcare system. To lead the nursing profession ahead, it would be necessary to anticipate and be ready to shape the future healthcare system. Do we, health professionals, know what will be coming up and where we would like the healthcare system to be in the years to come? Are we ready to meet the future challenges? Are we prepared?
